RED KOTE ANCHOR CHAIN

The new Red Kote anchor chair of Campbell Chain Company is rubber covered to protect the deck. The company says it gives more grab for anchor. The chain seats the anchor and keeps it down fast.

Over-sized links on each end make it easy to insert shackles.

The company has branches in York, Pa.; West Burlington, Iowa; East Cambridge, Mass.; Seattle, Wash.; Portland, Ore., Sacramento, San Francisco and Los Angeles, Calif.

EPOXY MARINE COATING

Epoxy Marine Coating is not a paint, but a revolutionary chemical coating with an amazing ability to stay on, says the manufacturer, Chemical Industries of America, 1 N. E. 79th St., Miami, Fla.

The company says that the coating resists impact, abrasive wear and the corrosive effects of sun and salt. It can be used on steel, all ferrous and non-ferrous metals, galvanized and plated fittings, wood, fiberglass and plastic.

No primer is necessary. Epoxy Marine Coating can be sprayed on, brushed, rolled or dipped.

NEW PROPULSION SYSTEM FOR LANDING CRAFT

A right angle drive propulsion system for landing craft, combining the advantages of an inboard engine with those of a fully steerable outboard propeller, has been developed by Waste King Corporation.

Boyd C. Marshall, manager of the Los Angeles firm's Engineering and Development Division, said that the new system has satisfactorily completed Navy acceptance trials and will undergo further testing by the Bureau of Ships.

It replaces the conventional rudder system in current model landing craft with an inboard engine driving an outboard propeller capable of rotating 360° or more without stops.

FINNCRAFT OUTBOARDS AND INBOARDS

An inboard version of their featured 19-footer is now being offered by Finncraft, Inc., 55 West 42nd St., New York 36, N. Y. This new model will be added to their regular line of clinker-built outboard utility skiffs.

Also added to the line is a new 21' raised-deck cabin sportsman. Power plant is optional. The boat has two built-in berths and a fully enclosed cabin.

Built by Scandinavian boatbuilders, all Finncraft hulls are riveted and glued at the seams for strength and extra long, watertight service, the company says. Finncraft boats are planked with either Philippine mahogany or Viking ship Northern Pine and are framed with white oak.

BOCA RATON MARINA COMPLETED

The new marina of the Boca Raton Hotel and Club in Florida has all the necessary facilities for living aboard, combined with all the services of a luxuriously fine hotel.

The Boca Raton Hotel and Club has completed a new marina, visiting yachtsmen will find it one of the most modern facilities on the Intracoastal Waterway.

The new yacht basin lies directly east of the hotel and club on Lake Boca which has been dredged to a depth of ten feet to accommodate the largest of ocean-going yachts. The 26 concrete slips are all equipped with outlets for electricity, water and telephone connections and dolphins have been added to afford further protection. Access to the Atlantic is possible through the Boca Raton Inlet.

Those who berth their yachts at the Boca Raton Hotel and Club this winter will have at their disposal all the facilities of this resort estate including 27 holes of golf, a step away from dockside. For crews' comfort, a day room has been built in the yacht basin area and ship's personnel will have the use of the employee canteen nearby.

SNIPE CLASS STILL GROWING

A pair of Snipes battle it out for some racing honor. Since the 15½' sloop was designed in 1932 by William F. Crosby the class has grown until there are now 11,000 registered in 437 fleets that are world-wide.

Twenty-five years old and growing!

That's the Snipe Class International Racing Association, the most truly numerous of all one-design yacht fellowships.

Tokyo to Turkey, behind the "Iron Curtain," and Mozambique to Oslofjord, Snipers hail newcomers by hundreds each year. Since the late William F. Crosby designed the 15½-foot sloop in 1932, more than 11,000 have been registered, in 437 fleets in 27 nations and territories. The United States of America counts Snipes in two dozen states and the District of Columbia.

Proud, and sure that theirs is a steed unique in some ways—a happy medium of speed, safety, size, cost, upkeep, trailability, and regulated equality. Snipe skippers and crews will continue to break precedent at the 1958 Boat Show, exhibiting a bright new Snipe complete with live sailors to answer questions and greet friends in the Snipe Class or any other persuasion. In their first amateur venture at the New York show, the sailors are chipping in—talents and money—to present the modest, fourth-floor Coliseum display where folksy words from the "men who own one" will replace big-time commercial pitch.

North Atlantic District Snipe sailors will stand "watches" over their "show boat," chatting and handing out thousands of copies of a special printed information brochure about the Snipe Class. Global maps and real flags of Snipe fleets and clubs, from near and distant oceans, seas, sounds, harbors, rivers, will provide a festive scene for the exhibit.

PLASTIC FABRICATIONS ADDS THE IROQUOIS

MANY CHAMPIONS USE HARD SAILS

The dacron sails made by Hard Sails, Inc., 203 Main St., Islip, L. I., New York, were used by many 1957 sailing champions.

Among them were the Lightning Class World championship won by Bill Cox; Raven Class National championship won by Jim Roosevelt; Atlantic Class championship won by Harry Platt, Finn Class North-American won by Glen Foster.

Herman F. Whiton, winner of the Seawanhaka Cup and Mel Gould who won the 5.5 Meter Canadian National championship also used Hard sails.

"Any tub will go in a gale of wind," he says, "but to design and build a boat which will go in an apparent calm is a real accomplishment."

His ideas certainly work, for his boats move even in the faintest air. This is true even of his multi-hull boats.

His first catamaran was to Piver a revelation. He had a boat which he could drive and drive, the more wind the more speed.

Various characteristics of the boat led Piver to believe that he could start from scratch and build a better one. This he did, and his 20' Pi-Cat has been flying around the Bay ever since.

Not having any experience in lofting, and not wanting to waste what seemed like unnecessary time in drawing lines all over the floor, he worked out a system of involving straight lines, angles, and arcs. By his method, a prospective builder could ring him on the telephone, and in a half-hour have enough information to build the boat without ever having seen a plan.

Piver chuckles about his novel method. He feels he contributed little to the art of boatbuilding with it. He still does practically no lofting. He works from a rough scale drawing, which seems to do well, at least for the comparatively simple craft he builds.

After sailing his second catamaran for a while the enthusiast began to wonder why many sailors would not even ride in it and why there seemed to be a great deal of coolness toward it, even though its performance and comfort were freely acknowledged. He came to the conclusion that people did not like his catamaran because of its unusual twin hull appearance.

"I always thought a boat had to be business existing unless it were beautiful," he said, "and so I assumed these people resented the appearance of the catamaran. To me, however, it is like a plain but highly virtuous wife—the performance is so satisfactory that you forgive the looks."

Piver then decided that he could build a conventional boat that would perform nearly as well as the multi-hull does.

The result was Nutshell, so-called because of its shape and the color of its natural wood, a boat in which the designer and I had more fun in a couple of seasons than the average small boat man has in a lifetime.

Nutshell is a 16' dinghy with an extreme beam of 6' 4" across the flaring gunwales, a draft (unloaded) of only two inches, and 140 square feet of sail.

It weighs 200 pounds in sailing trim, or about half of what would commonly be considered lightweight. The hull itself weighs 155 pounds; it is strip planked of 3/8" aircraft spruce covered with fiberglass.

The designer does not believe in a weighted centerboard because "the weight does no good as a stability factor unless the boat is well heeled, and because a heeled boat won't plane anyway. I don't want the extra weight so that we can plane in a lighter breeze."

And plane it does. With one aboard it planes in almost a zephyr; two people can keep it on its feet going to windward in a wind up to about 20 miles an hour.

Planes When Hard on the Wind

The boat will actually plane even when hard on the wind—it is the only one I ever heard of which will. With two aboard it has planed many times close-hauled to windward at 8 mph with three aboard up to 11 miles an hour.

Our first beat was a revelation. Piver had been somewhat concerned that such a light boat might not do well in a chop to windward because of her lack of weight and bluff bow.

What a vain fear! We started out to windward in a typical San Francisco Bay chop. A 26' racing yacht ahead was quickly passed and we knew we had something! The speedometer registered a steady 7 mph.

The boat proved to be tremendously seaworthy, and a story concerning a mishap will give you a clue what light weight and a roll gunwale will do. (Continued on next page)

LAWRENCE STAHL & CO., INC.

We started sailing Nutshell in the winter. In San Francisco at that time of year the wind usually is either very light or very heavy—little in between.

We had a streak of light weather and were anxious to wring out the boat, so one day we sailed over the main ship channel inside the Golden Gate. We met almost more than we had bargained for. There was a strong west wind which, coupled with an outgoing tide, made for a stretch so disturbed that the usual whitecaps were actually breaking seas.

We entered this local condition and things began to happen! The wind was so strong we couldn't keep the boat on an even keel so we ran off before the seas.

We fairly screamed down the face of the first one and, as experienced small boat sailors, knew that at that speed and angle of descent we were going to ram the bow clear under water at the bottom of the wave. And there we were in an undecked boat! We could not slow down because the wind was pressing the sail against the shrouds.

A Time When You Don't Look Back

You know, that bow went down and down until the gunwale lip hit the water—spray flew 30 feet on each side, and the bow stayed up! What a thrill, and what a relief!

For a while after that, everything was sheer joy. We just went whistling down those waves. It was one of those occasions when you don't dare look back or the sight of the following, menacing waves will scare you half to death.

We then discovered another fact about the boat. We did not ship one drop of spray from those breaking seas. The boat was so light it stayed right on top of the foam. We rode like a duck. Suddenly there was a crash and down came the mast.

Fortunately, a 30' sloop came along shortly after our dismasting and towed us to a nearby park. Here was another advantage of ultra-light weight. We paddled the boat to the beach, jumped out and, with one on each side, easily carried it up to the roadway.

The cause for the breaking of the mast was an aluminum through-bolt, which sheared off at the lower spreader. The bolt was replaced by a stainless-steel one and there was no further trouble.

The mast, incidentally, is another example of the designer's ideas. It is made of 18-gauge aluminum TV tubing, and weighs, rigged, 13 pounds, or about half the usual weight of a wooden spar. The boom is made of the same material, and its lightness accounts for our successful technique of jibing this little boat in winds up to 40 miles an hour with never a mishap.

"In an ordinary jibe there are two forces which can lead to a capsize. The first force is the actual turning of the boat itself, with the weight aloft swinging outwards with centrifugal force. The other force occurs when the boom swings over and, as the boat is usually by this time beam-on to the wind, the two forces together can be strong enough for a capsize.

Boom Pushes the Boat Ahead

"In our method, we run the boat approximately straight down wind, and heave in the main sheet—it is better for the crew to do the pulling, rather than the skipper. When the boom is amidships is the critical moment. In order to have it jibe you must have gone a little past directly down wind —as soon as the boom starts actually to jibe, which it will do lightning-fast in strong winds, the crew helps the boom across dead center while the skipper quickly turns the boat back toward the direction from which you have just come, which reverses the usual force. So, when the boom hits the shrouds, the boat is heading almost down wind again, and the resultant force of the boom going forward pushes the boat ahead instead of heeling it. Of course, you have to have very light and strong gear. Nutshell's boom weighs about three pounds."

The first time we jibed in such a manner was a revelation to me, although Piver previously had worked out the technique. We were in Raccoon Straits near San Francisco, and a violent squall was pushing us onto a steep, rocky headland. The wind was so strong that the boat simply wouldn't go

Put up hay in 2 days

ALL of a sudden, hay conditioning is catching on with a bang.

Machines that crimp, kink or otherwise crush and crack open the stems to speed up drying are selling at a rate that surprises even the makers.

Six or seven companies have machines on the market and several others now have models on test.

Why this upsurge in interest?

"Today's machines work better and cost less than the first ones out," says H. D. Bruhn, University of Wisconsin agricultural engineer. Most of the newer crushers and crimpers sell in the $700 to $800 range. Mower-crusher combinations cost around $1,200.

These machines cut field curing time just about in half in decent haying weather. This means you put your first cutting up in two days instead of three. And that's important, most years.

"We hit two drying days in a row often enough to get 90% of my hay up without getting rained on," says Ray Kern, Rice County, Minn., who has been keeping weather records the last two years. "And it rained often enough the third day that over half of my hay crop would have been damaged if I hadn't used a crimper."

Another Rice County farmer, John Olson, figures that his crimper saves one hay crop in three from rain.

Olson crimped part of a 7-acre field one morning last year and baled it the next day. Uncrimped hay in the same field got rained on the second night and had to stay in the field 10 days.

"That crimped hay was rich feed. Our butterfat production went up two pounds per cow per month over the year before," says Olson.

Alfalfa leaves contain 70% of the protein and 90% of the vitamins in hay. "Because a crimper or crusher saves leaves, a 10% saving in total dry matter can easily become a 20% saving in feed value," explains Rodney Briggs, University of Minnesota scientist.

Don Rupert, Columbiana County, Ohio has been using a crusher for about seven years and figures it costs him an extra $1 per ton.

"If you're baling hay, a conditioner will pay for itself quicker than a dryer," says Wisconsin's Bruhn. "It's a toss-up if you're mow-drying. You're really in velvet if you have both a conditioner and a dryer."

thick towels and a man-size bar of soap on hand. Better yet, have her make a wrap-around outfit of toweling.

Have her hang up a clean shirt, pants and socks within grabbing reach. Get her to buy you some comfortable lounging slacks and light-weight sports shirts.

Good to have those moccasin-style slippers, too. When you've been a few inches deep in chores, kick off the over-shoes and shoes on the porch and slip into these moccasins—even at noon.

A Minnesota man gave us this idea: Have paper toweling on a roller beside the lavatory for the first drying after you've been really greased up.

ing teeth. Several men praised shaving cream dispensers, said they add a little fun to a tiresome chore.

Now then, about the one that still makes some men snort: men's deodorants. Sales have skyrocketed. Few people realize that after-shave lotion and deodorants for men already outsell women's perfumed products.

Sissy stuff? Not if you'll believe a Kansas farmer with 500 acres to sweat over: "I don't want any of my neighbors' smells, and I don't want the folks at the bank or at meetings to have to put up with me! I don't want to smell like a hick. People look down a little on the guy who doesn't smell clean."

His wife wrote us: "He's a big, husky, outdoor-lovin' man, and sets such a good example, that showers and clean underwear are routine for our boys, too. We buy deodorant six jars at a time. Our littlest boy said once when daddy was using it: "Daddy, put some on me so I smell like a man."

Well, men, there you have it, the impassioned pleas of women who have asked us to say: "Dear stinker, we love you as you are, but we'd love you even more if you smelled a little less!" End

New, Bigger-Capacity Pools In 1958's Million-Air Line

Rigid-wall Koroseal wading pools said to be deeper, stronger and easier to erect are now available, announces the Million-Air Play Plastics Division of U. S. Fiber and Plastics Corporation, Stirling, N. J.

Robert A. Goodfellow, sales manager, said the new pools are designed to hold approximately six more inches of water than others of comparable size. Assembly of the pools has been simplified by eliminating the outside skirt and providing a specially extruded plastic coping that holds the liner in place, he said.

The new pools are circular, can be assembled without screws, nuts or bolts and are available in diameters ranging from 4 to 22 feet. Suggested retail prices start at $8.

Color of the new pool is a solid aquamarine, designed, Mr. Goodfellow said, to provide a pleasing, subdued appearance.

The new pool is said to have an exceptionally long life-expectancy. High-tensile strength (115,000 pounds per square inch) steel wire is used for the sidewall. This will support the weight of an adult without bending or sagging, Mr. Goodfellow said. Heavy gauge B. F. Goodrich Koroseal vinyl is used for the liner. This material is weatherproof and will it is claimed, not crack, rot or mildew.

Mr. Goodfellow pointed out that the large family pools are of 20 gauge (20/1000 in.) Koroseal. Pools ranging from 8 to 12 feet in diameter are made in 12-gauge and the smaller pools in 10-gauge.

In packing the pools, the wire fencing is rolled up so that it can fit into a small space, thus facilitating economical storing and handling. The carton size for a 58 inch pool, for example, is only about 12" by 12" by 14". All the pools are equipped with garden hose drains.

Following are the sizes and suggested retail prices: 20-gauge liner—12-foot diameter by 30" deep, $100; 18-foot diameter by 36" deep, $200; 22-foot diameter by 40" deep, $300. M. SELLER'S FORMER TOY MANAGER JOINS GILBERT

Bill Sethre, young and popular manager for several years of the Toy Division of M Seller & Company, Portland, Ore., is joining The A. C. Gilbert Company in an executive sales capacity, according to an announcement by Harvey Rath, vice-president, A. C. Gilbert.

Bill Sethre

Mr. Sethre is moving his wife and two children from Portland and expects to establish residence in the Westchester, N. Y., area, where he will be convenient both to A. C. Gilbert's New York City Hall of Science as well as to the factory.

Mr. Sethre has had approximately 10 years in the merchandising of housewares and toys. In his position at M. Seller as manager of the Toy Division he had been not only the buyer but the sales director as well. He also managed the toy departments of several medium-sized department stores in the Portland area and so is completely familiar with department store toy operations.

RICHTHOFEN'S FOKKER DR-1 REVELL'S NEWEST PLANE KIT

"Action designed" is the word for Revell's new 70-piece large-scale #270 Fokker DR-1 Triplane kit, closely following the Spad in the company's new series of 1/27 scale historic World War I planes. Loaded with real moving parts, the $1.98 plastic Fokker kit features a completely detailed easy-to-assemble rotary engine which actually turns with the propeller. The engine cowling, disk-type landing wheels and pilot's control stick are all movable.

To spark sales at the point of purchase, Revell has developed an eye-compelling dealer display for the Fokker Triplane. Taking up a small 8½ by 9-inch base area, the full-color die-cut 14-inch high displayer is designed in a pyramid shape with the Fokker model silhouetted on the peak, ready to fly into action in building impulse sales. The three life like sculptured figures of Germany's ranking World War I ace Baron Manfred von Richthofen and two mechanics, which are included in the kit, are prominently displayed on a cut-out section on the base of the pyramid.

Dealers can obtain this action-packed merchandiser absolutely free with Revell's built-up model of the Fokker. Also offered without charge is a spectacular full-color window poster measuring 13½" by 22" and featuring Revell's flame-red Fokker and olive drab Spad flying into action. This brilliantly-designed poster dramatically points up the collecting theme by whetting the appetite of the hobbyist to start a W. W I fighter collection.

Precision-engineered from authenticated blueprints, the Revell three-wing aircraft model is realistically endowed with every detail of the prototype. Exactingly reproduced in plastic are the canvas textured covering of the aircraft and two Spandau machine guns mounted in front of the pilot.

Two-color decals are detailed with the official markings of Baron von Richthofen. Wingspan of the model is 10 5/16".

CROPS and SOILS

READY FOR FILLING. You unroll plastic up sides of silo or bin, prop it while you fill, then tie at top. Plastic is sealed around auger that empties bin (left) for airtight unloading.

Store wet grains in a plastic bag?

THE new idea of sealing wet grain in plastic to prevent spoilage is paying off for farmers who tried it last fall.

"My hogs are gaining better than any I've ever had," says Everett Horine, Grant County, Ind., who put 2,000 bushels of 30% moisture corn in a plastic bag inside his silo last fall (photo above).

Hogs really go for Horine's wet corn, and half of it is already fed. What's left looks as bright and glossy as on the day it went in.

Horine is drying the rest of his corn crop to sell this spring. Then he'll buy more high moisture corn to refill his plastic-lined silo to feed winter pigs. He figures he'll get $1 a bushel for his dry corn, pay about 75¢ for wet corn.

A number of Indiana farmers tried storing wet corn in plastic last fall after Purdue University scientists reported that the idea had worked in a preliminary test. The scientists weren't prepared to recommend sealing wet grain in plastic, but they told how it worked for them inside a steel bin.

Farmers stuck with wet corn took it from there. Horine's brother, for example, saved 800 bushels of wet corn by putting it in a plastic bag inside snow fence cribbing reinforced with wire. A neighbor lined an old open-top silo.

To make the plastic bag, Horine took 6-mil plastic sheets to a manufacturer who joined them into a sleeve with an electric sealing machine. Cost for plastic and sealing: $65.

Early this year, at least one manufacturer, the A. O. Smith Corp., Kankakee, Ill., made available to its dealers a plastic sleeve for lining bins.

FARM JOURNAL can't flatly state that this is the way to save your wet corn from spoiling this spring. The idea is still too new.

However, Purdue scientists are testing plastic liners on at least nine different farms this winter, and before long, they should be able to recommend how you go about doing it.

Two possible drawbacks loom: (1) Leaks, or damage to the plastic will let air in, and (2) you have to empty out the bin with a sealed, smooth-running system. The wet grain would spoil if you opened the plastic every day, and there can't be any bridging or it won't auger out.

Farmers and scientists have proved this much: High moisture grain won't heat and spoil when it's tightly sealed in plastic. And the grain makes good feed (FARM JOURNAL, September 1957).

But you have to be careful with the plastic both in getting a tight seal, and in keeping it from leaking.

. . . the .22

Why is the Stevens 87 the most wanted, moderately priced .22 in America? Because it's so versatile. Use it to get rid of rodents and other pests. Or have fun with it—plinking or informal target practice, for instance.

This 3-in-1 rifle operates as an auto-loader with .22 long rifle cartridges—fires as fast as you can pull the trigger. Or use it as a bolt action repeater or single shot with short, long or long rifle ammunition. You'll find it easy handling, too.

More facts on one of America's most popular .22's: walnut finish stock with distinctive black tip fore-end . . . large capacity tubular magazine . . . grooved receiver for instant 'scope mounting. Be sure to see it at your dealer's now.

There are Savage and Stevens .22's for every type of shooting. The most complete line of .22's in America. 9 different models to choose from—priced from $15.95 to $47.50. Write for free rifle or shotgun catalog. Savage Arms, Chicopee Falls 21, Mass.

houses of Congress like a greased pig at a county fair.

Lawmakers who voted to cut the Soil Bank earlier turned right around and voted for the increase this time. USDA, they said, had announced the program was open to all comers and the government had to keep its word.

Corn and cotton will get most of the money.

Right now there's more corn land signed up than could be paid for, even with the new money, but USDA expects some acreage to be cancelled or scaled down before the deadline, March 28. Everywhere but in Minnesota, farmers will be accepted in the order they appear on the waiting list.

About $100 million of the extra money will be used for cotton. This is enough to take 5 million acres out of production. USDA hopes some of that acreage will be withdrawn. Probably not much will be, however, because most cotton men expect this crop to sell well, the supply of good cotton being as low as it is.

Will They Stop Dairy Cut?

As FARM JOURNAL goes to press nobody can say whether the cut in dairy price supports will be headed off.

It's almost certain that neither Secretary Benson nor the President will restore the cuts. It would be up to Congress.

The separate dairy freeze bill lost in the Senate, but it is still a part of the over-all price-and-acreage freeze resolution now before the House.

Meanwhile, alerted by the Secretary's announcement back in December, dairy processors have, quite naturally, been sweeping out their warehouses and dumping the contents on the government before the price goes down.

Government bought twice as much butter this February as a year ago, and three times as much dry milk. The trend continued through March.

Back in 1954, when supports were cut from 90% to 75%, they did the same thing, then bought the stuff back at lower prices. Sometimes it never even left their warehouses. Burned once, USDA does not intend to let that happen again. It will mark up the re-sale price this time.

Okay Extra Wheat Acres?

Can a wheat farmer who overplants his acreage this spring include the excess acres in establishing future allotments?

Probably he will be able to this spring. But not in future years unless he stores the wheat grown on these acres.

He couldn't sell this stored wheat except in years when he had underplanted or produced less than his marketing quota.

That's the deal wheat farmers and USDA have worked out. Chances are good that Congress will OK it, although it reverses a law passed last year. End

GULF STREAM "30"

NEW MODELS FEATURED IN GM DIESEL LINE

Featuring three new engines developed within the last year, Detroit Diesel Engine Division's display again points up the flexibility and wide power range of the GM line of two-cycle Diesels. On display for their first New York showing are a 364 shaft hp Diesel for large pleasure craft; a 110 hp unit for small boats and a workboat model that attains a high power-to-weight ratio.

The new turbopower engine is a six-cylinder "110" unit to which a single-stage, free-turning, exhaust turbine has been added.

The effect of the turbocharger is to improve combustion through better engine breathing and to add a substantial increase of 75 hp over the pleasure boat rating of the non turbopowered unit.

The new 110 hp Diesel is a three-cylinder Series 71 unit offered without heat exchanger and with a through-shaft direct drive marine gear as standard equipment. This model adds greater flexibility to the Detroit Diesel line because it provides an economical, light-weight Diesel installation for small pleasure craft where heat exchangers are already installed and where lighter, more compact marine gears are practical.

Other models include the Division's 87 hp, valveless unit for small pleasure boats and workboats and vertical and inclined models for almost any single-engine installation, up to the 364 hp pleasure boat rating of the new "6-110." Several of these vertical and inclined models are displayed as matched pairs.

SAVAGE MARINE MUFFLERS

Savage Marine mufflers which silence noisy exhausts are easy to install says the company which produces them—Savage Marine Company, Box 772, Boston, Mass.

Just insert into exhaust pipe at transom end. It's an easy operation whether the boat is in the water or out. Durable bronze is used in construction of the mufflers.

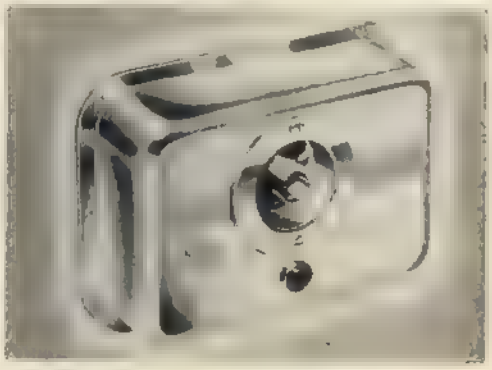
ALUMINESCENT PAINT ADDITIVE

The Federal Paint Co., 33 Rector Street, New York 6, N. Y., announces the development of a new "aluminescent" paint additive, Federal "Secret Agent," which produces a new color treatment when added to Federal yacht paints.

"Secret Agent," an aluminum-base formula, pigmented with Alcoa aluminum which gives colors a metallic sparkle.

Federal claims that this metallic addition should strengthen a boat's paint to stand up better over the entire season. Its insulative qualities, they say, tend to keep the boat cooler under a hot summer sun.

NOLECTRO STOPS ELECTROLYSIS



Nolectro is a specifically designed alarm that lights up and buzzes when electrolysis is introduced aboard ship—perhaps from improper dockside plugging. By reversing a plug on the Nolectro, the electrolysis is eliminated. The Nolectro is made by Schurger Marine Products, located at 9410 Woodland Ave., Cleveland 4, Ohio.

CUPRINOL ATTACKS MILDEW AND DIRT

New products offered this year by Cuprinol Division, Darworth, Inc., Simsbury, Conn., are designed to prevent mildew and rot, neutralize musty odors, and clean bilges

An application of Sav-it is not only waterproof, but will prevent mildew of leather and canvas. Yet it still permits the passage of air. The Sav-it treatment causes water or moisture to form into drops through surface tension. These drops are too large to pass through the tiny holes between the threads of the fabric. But air can still get through.

Oder Free, sprayed on a surface, acts to attack the cause of unpleasant odors—microscopic bacteria that cling to the surfaces. Odor Free is available in pressurized cans

Greasy surfaces, spilled oil and gasoline, plus dirty bilges are targets for the new Grease Off. An ounce of concentrate in a quart of water provides a cleansing solution that the company says eliminates messy areas on metal, glass, plastic, washable fabric, painted and varnished wood. Grease Off also mixes with and emulsifies floating gasoline, oil and grease so that they may be easily pumped out of the bilge.

Two different types of rot-preventive on ropes are now offered. Rope Preservative No. 30 is for ropes used out of water. The second type, designated B. C. No. 50, is for nets and ropes that are continually submerged in fresh or salt water. Both types are applied by dipping. Since the solution penetrates the fibers, the company says that it cannot wear off because of friction.

PLUGS ENGINEERED TO OUTBOARD NEEDS

Features designed to overcome spark plug rust and fouling headline the story about the new line of marine plugs by AC Spark Plug Division of General Motors. Covering all makes and models of outboard motors, AC's marine-engineered line provides a plug to fit every need from trolling to racing.

AC's feature for overcoming rust consists of a protective coating of non-corrosive zinc plate added to the steel shell of the plug. It then is topped with a pore-sealing covering of aluminum enamel.

Plug fouling is combatted by AC's "hot tip" insulator design which gives the plug's insulator a long, thin, deeply-recessed tip. Because of the thinness of the tip, it heats up quickly to burn away oil and carbon deposits as they form, and yet cools rapidly to prevent preignition of the fuel mixture. The design also provides maximum clearance around the insulator tip to improve scavenging action of the burning fuel.

Conductaseal and heat-sealed construction insure top performance by protecting the plug from combustion chamber pressures. A copper-glass seal joining AC's two-piece center electrode, the Conductaseal protects it from excessive heat and wear by eliminating gas leakage through the insulator around the electrode.

Heat-sealed construction guards against compression and power loss and resulting fuel waste by preventing leakage between the insulator and metal shell

By EVERETT B. MORRIS

THOSE who planned the New York Yacht Club cruise for 1958 kept well in mind the fact that the International 12-Meter Class sloops seeking the America's Cup defense assignment would head the cruising squadron. Hence an itinerary which calls for all of the around-the-buoys and port-to-port racing to be done in good open water in localities where the odds favor finding something in the way of decent sailing breezes.

The squadron will rendezvous at New London on August 1 and disband at Marion nine days later after four inter-port passages under racing conditions and three full-blown regattas, two of them built around traditional cup competitions. Things have been planned so well that it will be possible to give the Twelves and the other large yachts the maximum in the way of exercise without making things too tough for the Class C boats which have become so numerous.

On August 2 the fleet will race from New London to Newport and remain there a day to compete for the Queens, Una and Corsair Cups. Then comes an eastward passage to Padanaram on the 4th and a run to Edgartown on the 5th. The squadron will lay over a day in the Marthas Vineyard port and then race to Hadleys Harbor, a little gem of a haven opposite Woods Hole.

The next morning, when the tide serves, the squadron will go through the Hole into Buzzards Bay and put on the club's annual regatta, finishing off Marion and putting its hooks down in the Beverly Yacht Club anchorage that night. The Astor Cup race is scheduled for the 9th and the cruise will end officially at evening colors that night unless it is necessary to continue through the 10th which has been set aside especially for the sailing off of fixtures which the race committee might have had to postpone.

The club has no intention of getting caught again as it was last year when the Queens-Una-Corsair Cups regatta off Newport had to be cancelled on the final Saturday for want of wind and everyone went home because no provision had been made in the schedule for such a contingency.

Cruise plans were announced by Commodore J. Burr Bartram at the club's annual prize-giving dinner, the highlight of which was the award of the Cygnet Cup to C. Raymond Hunt, Harrier's skipper. The prize is given annually by the race committee to the yacht which, in its considered opinion, is the outstanding performer on the cruise. This is the first time since the award was created that it has gone to other than a New York member. Hunt raced Harrier under the burgee of the Eastern Y. C., whose vessels are always invited to participate in the N. Y. Y. C. cruise. A clarification of the conditions governing the award made this possible and obviated any further unhappiness about the prize going to the second best boat in the squadron instead of the one that deserved it.

PROWLER CRUISER IS OFFERED

The 1958 model of the Prowler Cruiser, 29' x 10' is powered by twin 225 hp Gray engines turning 14x14 propellers. The boat attains a speed of 45 mph at 4,200 rpm. It is manufactured by Forest E. Johnson Boat Works, 325 N W Sp. River Drive, Miami 36, Fla. The company also makes various custom built boats that range from 20 to 30 feet.

EIGHT MOTORS IN BUCCANEER LINE

The 1958 line of eight Buccaneer outboard motors made by Gale Products, Galesburg, Ill., headed up by the 35-hp de luxe model with electric starting, covers the full range of consumer demand all the way down to a new 5-hp de luxe model with remote fuel tank.

In addition to the 35, the Buccaneer comes in a 25 hp de luxe model with electric starting, a 25 hp de luxe standard, a 12 hp de luxe and a 12 hp standard, a 5 hp standard and a 3 hp de luxe model.

The line features many refinements. Styled by designer Brooke Stevens, the motors appear in new seafaring colors of sea mist green and surf white. In addition to electric starting in the larger horsepower de luxe models, they feature automotive-type key-switch starting.

The new Buccaneers have a unique tilt handle to make them easier to manipulate in or out of the water. By placing one hand on the handle at the front of the motor, and the other hand on the "assist" handle on top of the powerhead, the boatman gets extra leverage for carrying, stowing or tilting his motor.

Another feature is the quick opening covers. With a simple operation, the powerhead cover comes off for quick repairs and accessibility, eliminating laborious and time-consuming assembling and re-assembling.

SUDBURY OFFERS NEW PRODUCTS

◀ Sudbury's new submersible pump has no metal parts except for the motor.

▼ The Sky-Vents offered by Sudbury are now available in transparent "elephant-hide" plastic. They can be installed on all types of yachts.

A variety of new useful products, ranging from a submersible pump to an eight-foot transparent pram are offered by Sudbury Laboratory, South Sudbury, Mass.

Sudbury's new submersible electric bilge pump has no metal parts except for the motor which is completely sealed in a watertight compartment, making it impossible to corrode or cause electrolysis.

The new boat fender can be attached in such a way that it cannot slip down leaving rails unprotected. When tied up alongside other boats, the "slip easy" finish of the fender prevents damage to any of the craft.

Costly damage, due to a faulty water pump or other failures that cause overheating of engines, can be averted with the Sudbury engine alarm, which gives a combined buzzer-signal and red visual signal of warning.

Sudbury Sky-Vents, developed two years ago, can now be supplied in tough, transparent, plastic "elephant-hide." They can be installed on all types of yachts. Designed for 9", 12" and 18" installations, they may also be custom made with a completely transparent hatch cover.

An eight-foot transparent boat is good for fishing, camping, and skin-diving. In fact, photographs can be taken right through the clear, transparent hull. It seats three persons comfortably. Weighing only 44 pounds (stripped) it can be easily loaded on a car top rack—or on board a cruiser.

Sudbury has just announced a new portable stove designed particularly for use in outboard cruisers and camps. Small and light, it features a heavy-gauge aluminum griddle. For fuel it uses solidified alcohol ("canned heat"). An easy slide-out drawer for instant re-fueling has a place for two burners, plus one additional burner which makes double heat available on one side of the stove when required.

It is important that fiberglass boat bottoms be protected because barnacles and other growth will adhere to fiberglass. Last year, when Sudbury brought out No. 365 Bottom Paint and Sudbury Galva-Coat they were also testing and developing a primer that could be used on fiberglass boats.

According to Herbert J. Atkinson, Director of Sudbury Laboratory, any bottom paint, including the new No. 365, will adhere to fiberglass boats after a coating of Sudbury Primer has been applied.

SONAR RADIO

Sonar Model 90, a 90-watt unit, features 6 marine channels plus broadcast band available for 12 or 32 volt DC operation.

Model 160 is a 160-watt 6 marine channel plus broadcast band marine radio telephone, available for 12 and 32 volt DC and 117 volt AC operation. It has a two dynamotor and vibrator power supply.

All of the above units comply with Coast Guard regulations relating to public boats for hire and will meet all new FCC regulations.

MARINE ADHESIVE TAKES ABUSE

Operation South Bay Blue Jay—the 25 boat community building program which attracted so much attention in Northeastern boating circles last spring—used AR-703 exclusively for gluing and protecting the plywood planking on their Blue Jay Sloops. They report the product has performed beyond all expectations.

In spite of a season's abuse by 25 novice junior skippers in a strenuous 5-month sailing program, all report the AR-703 is as good as the day it was applied.

During the racing season a number of the boats were involved in collisions leaving them with fractures and holes in their plywood planking—some of which were 3" or 4" across. It was found that AR-703 mixed with Part C thickener proved ideal for making quick, flawless and permanent patches for these holes.

In addition to its use as a marine glue, plywood and fiberglass patching material and plywood protector, AR-703 has many other uses ranging from securing teak decks to underdecks to protecting wooden hulls from marine borers in southern waters. Complete details on AR-703 Marine Coating and other "AR" Products are available from Alroy Process Corp., 6 East 46th Street, New York 17, N. Y.

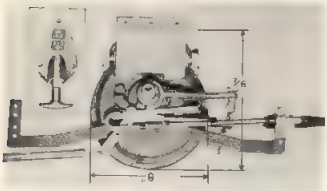
HEAVY DUTY SYNCHRONIZER



Marmac Products of Detroit have developed a new, heavier duty synchronizer for operation on twin-engine, inboard gasoline and diesel powered vessels. It eliminates vibration.

A new and heavier duty synchronizer for twin-engined, inboard gasoline and diesel powered boats is now being marketed by Marmac Products, 2400 Bellevue, Detroit 7, Michigan.

The accurate and sensitive new unit is said to keep the "lead" and "following" engines within one rpm of each other. Four tachometer drive outlets are provided as a source of power, with the result that the throttle control arm can be set to travel from left to right, or right to left as desired. The synchronizer will also handle engines having opposite rotating tachometer drives without the provision of additional equipment.

Of especial interest to boat owners is the fact that the unit may be mounted in any convenient location below deck.

According to the manufacturer, the new unit completely eliminates all propeller noises and engine vibrations set up by frequency variations due to non-synchronization.

Marmac also announces a new "topside dual steerer," especially adapted for use by sport fishermen. Entirely mechanical in its operation, the new device eliminates the need for opening or closing valves at either of the wheels mounted on the flying bridge or in the deckhouse. It is especially noteworthy, also, for the lack of any material play in the upper controls.

The main portion of the mechanism is contained within the lower control tower. It consists of dual racks, mounted in parallel within tubular brass housings and actuated by a single pinion located between these racks. The movement of this pinion is controlled by the rotation of the shaft

HATHAWAY SAILS POWER WINNERS

Twenty yachts using Hathaway, Reiser & Raymond, Inc. dacron sails produced 31 first places in middle and long distance racing in 1957, including the Trans-Atlantic race from Newport to Santander, Spain; the Fastnet, Halifax and Storm Trysail-Block Island events. In five M.O.R.C. races, eight of 12 classes in the Off Soundings Club spring and fall cruises, the Britannia Cup, Watch Hill long distance fixture, American Y.C. cruise, Norwalk Y.C. Cruise, Single Handed Creepstakes, Riverside-Stratford Shoals, and Storm Trysail-Mt. Desert test, this company's sails powered prize winning yachts.

In the Columbus Day Indian Harbor-Stratford Shole-Execution race, 10 entries using H. R. & R. sails drove eight of the first nine boats on corrected time.

More cold-weather zip in your engine . . . more power, too . . . and, best of all, gas consumption toboggans to a new low!

If the spark plugs in your car, trucks, tractors or stationary engines have delivered full recommended service life, a new set of ACs can save as much as one gallon of gasoline out of every ten you buy. That's because the exclusive Hot Tip burns off fouling carbon and oil deposits, keeps AC Spark Plugs clean-burning to assure efficient fuel combustion.

ACs are factory equipment on more new cars than any other make. Put a new set of AC Hot Tip Spark Plugs to work in your car and farm equipment, too!

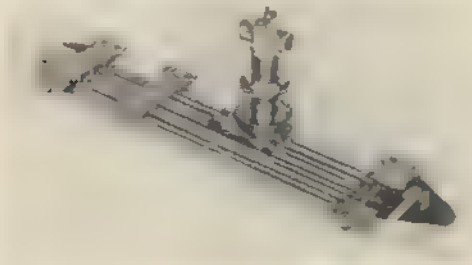
CLEAN-FLO KEEL COOLERS STREAMLINED

The Water Clean-Flo Keel Coolers have been completely streamlined for easy flow of water over fittings and tubing. This is an advanced type of closed cooling system and can be supplied for engines of 5 to 500 hp. A fresh water keel cooler gives protection against rust corrosion, dirt, and sand.

The Walter Keel Cooler is flush-mounted outside the hull toward the stern, and the fresh water is cooled by a simple procedure. The cooling fresh water passes through one compartment from the engine to the cooling tubes outside and returns to the engine. Only one opening is required for the installation.

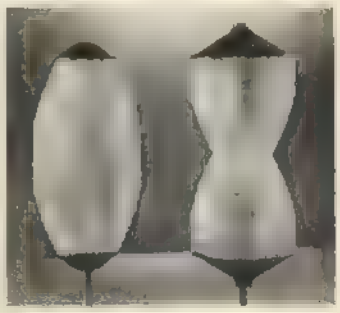
This system is good for all-winter operation, since anti-freeze can be used for operation or lay-up during winter months and eliminates the necessity of draining the engine.

The Walter Keel Cooler is available in sizes for all types of gasoline and diesel engines and also for both wooden and metal hulls. It is manufactured by the Walter Machine Co., Inc., 90 Cambridge Ave., Jersey City 7, New Jersey. They also make V-Drives, Transfer Drives, Reduction Gears, Down Angle Reduction Gears, and Propeller Pullers.



The Walter Clean-Flo Keel Cooler prolongs engine life by guarding cooling systems against corrosion.

ELECTRO MARINE OFFERS BOATING SPECIALTIES



The Electro Marine Reflector can be seen from any angle from three feet to one thousand feet.

Several items of practical value to the yachtsman are being offered this year by Electro Marine Products, Inc., 4458 Coolidge Highway, Box 522, Oak Ridge Station, Royal Oak, Mich.

The Electro Marine reflector constructed of thousands of specially ladded and hermetically sealed prisms, can be seen from any angle from three to 1,000 feet. Under shock loadings there is less than ¼" deflection in the Flexible Engine Mount, yet it functions equally as well under static or running load conditions.

The Dual-Flex Engine Coupling eliminates or reduces transmission of noise and vibration between the engine and propeller shaft. It also acts as an insulator between engine and shaft to help fight electrolysis. The Electro Marine Refrigeration Unit can convert any ice box (up to 15 cubic feet) into automatic electric refrigeration.

A heavy duty marine rectifier for transforming shore current down to 12 volt D.C. or 32 volt D.C. is the Electro Marine Converter. Manually controlled through a Hi-Lo switch, it may be set for a high charging rate for low batteries or heavy loads, or switched into low for trickle charging or maintenance of batteries for long periods under light load conditions.

Map No. 4—"Industry, Agriculture, and Activities"—shows America's skyscrapers, factories, farm products, natural resources, and recreation centers.

will prove helpful. A wheel jack to support the weight will make hitching and unhitching the trailer something your boy can do.

A rubber tire dolly wheel with a wide tread is very helpful when moving the trailer about on land, as well as when launching and loading by immersion. And speaking of immersion remember to repack the wheel bearings often. Salt water, especially, is hard on wheel bearing grease. Be sure that the bearing dust cap is in place. This is a great help against sand and grit. Spring shackles should be greased every time you service the car on a long trip. Finally, if the trailer hitch seems somewhat worse for wear, replace it with a sturdy new one

Now, let's look at the car. For a heavy boat and a long trip, a house trailer hitch is needed. (Never trust a bumper hitch!) Have it welded to the fore and aft frame members and beefed up on the last cross member and bumper supports This is just as important to trailing as a good keel is to boating.

The Matter of Brakes

The brakes should need little cautioning comment. State laws and an on-the-road test will tell you what you need here. If the trailer doesn't have brakes, they can almost always be added

The sagging American tourist, with or without a trailer, is a dangerous and not uncommon sight on many highways Don't be one of them. Get a weight distributing hitch or helper springs. The pneumatic "Airlifts" which can be varied from 4 to 12 pounds, depending upon the amount of lift you need, work well, and are not expensive. The reason you probably will need helpers on most sizable boats is because 10 to 20 per cent of the weight of the trailer and load should bear on the car's hitch. If it does not, you will surely learn the meaning of the word "weave." Some other weave causes are loose or misaligned axle, loose hitch or trailer ball, or unevenly inflated tires. Trailer tires, like the automobile's tires, should all have the same air pressure.

So, just put her on a trailer, hook up, and take off. There's really not much to it, if you rig it right. But whether your load be a featherweight runabout or a husky auxiliary, look before you leap. Your safety and that of others may be at stake. In trailing, as in boating, once the precautions are taken, they are seldom needed.

ULMER FOUL-WEATHER GEAR

In a continuing effort to correct any faults which crop up, as they will, through continued usage, Charles Ulmer Inc., City Island, N. Y., has endeavored to improve their two grades of foul weather gear

Aldair—outer surface of Nylon cloth has been siliconed to give it a water-resistant surface, to prevent the spread of moisture on uncoated outer surface with ten-pound test inner coating, thus doubly insuring the wearer's dryness and comfort. All seams are double-stitched and heavily coated to prevent leakage from that source.

Light 'n' Dry—inner surface of Nylon is being coated, as well as outside, as this, in the light of experience has proved most satisfactory for this light-weight suit; seams are now being double-stitched and coated to make them completely watertight, instead of as previously sewn.

The small carrying bags to match are valuable adjuncts and have found increasing favor, not only as a means of carrying and storing the suits, but also for use of valuables, cigarettes, etc., when suits are being used.

Aldair is available in marine blue and Light 'n' Dry in either dark gray or yellow.

I wouldn't have missed that for the world."

"Missed what?" I asked.

"Those two guys I was talking to," said Bob. "They crew for Uffa on distance races, and, in between times, they race their own fourteen-footer. We swapped a bunch of yarns while you were up with Uffa. Sure glad I came." He looked relaxed.

I said, "You mean white sails and keels and rudders?"

"Pardon me?" Bob said.

"Never mind," I said.

Besides, I'd learned one thing about Uffa which Bob didn't know. He's the kind of man whose only knowledge of French is, "Je t'aime," and who marries a Frenchwoman whose only knowledge of English is, "I lauf you."

Or could it be that I knew that twelve years ago anyway and I'd just forgotten power) was built by Burger of Manitowoc, Wis., from designs by Sparkman & Stephens of New York. She is 57′ 5″ overall length, 40′ load waterline, 13′ 6″ beam, 5′ 6″ draft with her centerboard housed, and spreads 1,604 square feet of sail in a modern masthead rig. Her 72′ mainmast is an elliptical hollow aluminum structure.

DYNA

Her light displacement—48,100 pounds—for a vessel of her size, stems from the fact that Dyna is of welded aluminum plate construction. Dyna's shell plating is ¼″ thick and is of a special high-tensile strength alloy developed for marine use by Alcoa. She and her cruising sistership, Aria, which flies the private signal of George Kress, a fellow Green Bay townsman of Ewing, are believed to be the largest aluminum-hulled sailing yachts built in the United States.

The bare hulls of these vessels weigh some four tons less than a conventional wood frame and plank vessel of similar dimensions and 9,700 pounds less than one of steel. Of Dyna's 48,100 pounds of displacement, 18,000 is in her cast-iron keel which is slotted to handle an aluminum centerboard.

The welded hull is a one-piece shell that lends itself to an exceptionally smooth finish and, because it achieves strength with a minimum of hull members, makes for unusual roominess below. This factor is reflected in the spaciousness of the accommodations and the abundance of locker and stowage space.

Fuel and water tanks are integral with the hull and are almost twice the usual size. For auxiliary power Dyna has a GM series 51, vee-drive diesel. Electricity for refrigerator, lights, radio direction finder, fathometer and such is provided by a Leece-Neville 1,500-watt, 32-volt DC engine-driven generator and an Onan 3-kw, 32-volt diesel generator.

Dyna's galley, located aft on the port side, has a 7.7-cubic-foot Latsco refrigerator, a Heritage stove in gimbals, a double sink and all manner of lockers and shelves for food and cooking equipment. The chart table and drawers, and the navigator's department are opposite the galley.

The big light oak-panelled main cabin sleeps four in built-in and transom berths, and has a gimballed dining table. The owner's stateroom, with its own toilet room, is located forward of the cabin and abaft the forecastle.

Exterior trim is teak and the decks have been covered in fiberglass. Guest Products, of Long Island City, N. Y., did the rigging and installed the mechanical aids which make her an efficient racing machine.

Dyna was launched at Manitowoc in April and has been busy ever since. She had her owner's trials in May, was hauled out for a few finishing touches and then departed from Green Bay in June almost before her last coat of varnish was dry to meet her crew in Milwaukee and compete in the Queen's Cup race. In this, her very first effort under fire, she took third place. A few days later, Dyna was first in Class A in the Muskegon Y.C. regatta. Her crew was beginning to find out how to make her go.

She followed her first victory with a sweep of the Port Huron-Mackinac race and then topped Class A and Division One in the 50th Chicago-Mackinac test. These excellent performances, unfolded in the largest and sharpest fleets the Lakes had to offer, won her the Commodore Buhler Trophy for the best total corrected time for both of the fresh water classics.

Dyna proved herself to be a slippery performer in light going and a very fast boat to windward in a real breeze of wind.

DUNPHY BOATS

The all-new lapstrake models with the clipper bow design have been added to the regular line of molded mahogany plywood hulls offered by The Dunphy Boat Corporation, Oshkosh, Wisconsin.

The 16′ Whitecapper, one of the lapstrakes, with a beam of 78″ and a maximum depth of 36″, is 72″ wide at the transom. The combination tank lockers that double as fishing seats and the convertible tops are accessories available for the Whitecapper as well as for the smaller 14½′ Surf Rider.

A new larger 16′ Manta hull, has been added to the line of seven-ply all-mahogany boats. The Imperial model has ample room for deck chairs and picnic equipment. The 14′ 2″ Ski Rider is designed for skiers.

Other Dunphy models include the Robalo and Bonito series of 14′ hulls and a new open-type runabout, the 14′ Black Bass for fishermen. Many of the boats are equipped with "Magic Carpet" seat suspension systems which give added comfort.

The new 15-foot canoe, CO-15, constructed by Aluma Craft Boat Company, 1515 N.E. Central, Minneapolis, Minn., has a fan-tail for center mounting a motor. The fan-tail is located entirely above the water line. This allows the canoe to be paddled in the same manner as a double-ender canoe.

NEW STRUCTURAL CELASTIC

The new structural Celastic and B.W. Mix for marine decking, hull repairs, insulation, etc., is a colloid-treated fabric. When immersed in B.X. Mix for five seconds it becomes soft and pliable.

Made by Walters Industries, Inc., 156 7th Ave., New York 11, N. Y., Celastic has its own adhesion and will take any contour or shape. It will stick to any surface; wood, plastics, glass, etc.

When the product sets up, it is not only waterproof and light weight, but according to the company it becomes a tough skin which reinforces the surface and has high impact and abrasion qualities.

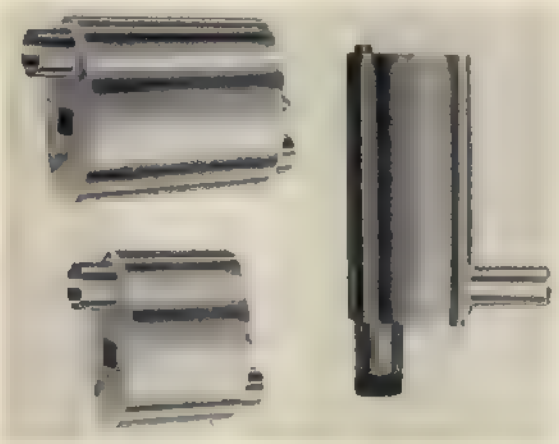
QUIET THAT EXHAUST



Deluxe model silencers are being featured by The Maxim Silencer Company in its 1958 line of wet-type marine silencers

Deluxe Model silencers are featured in the 1958 line of wet-type marine silencers shown by The Maxim Silencer Company of Hartford, Connecticut, subsidiary of Ferrari Mfg. Co.

Models WM1, WM2 and TR2 are all Monel, wet-type, exhaust silencers for the modern, high-speed marine engines with thermostatically controlled or closed cooling systems. They use a minimum of cooling water and create a minimum of back pressure. High degree silencing is produced by WM1 for engines above the waterline and by TR2 for engines below the waterline. Either, used in series with WM2, will, according to Maxim, give perfect silencing. Model MO, also all-Monel, is designed for use in smaller boats where weight and space must be kept to a minimum. Maxim also shows the popular cast iron silencer line, Models M-3, M-4 and TR.

SKIS FOR AMATEURS AND PROS

For 1958, Thompson Skis, Inc., of Crivitz, Wisconsin, will feature a line of water skis, made of tough-textured white ash.

For better visibility, Thompson's will carry a "white and bright" motif in their ski finishes. The regular line of varnished skis will be finished in a superlight, clear finish so that the same high visibility factor will be available to those who like the beauty of natural wood.

Four types of ski binders will be available for the coming year: binders for children, "Sunday skiers," intermediate and professional. Features of the new professional model will be the "deep heel," extra reinforcing of the binder, and harder durometer rubber which will give maximum control of special purpose skis such as jumpers, trick, and slalom skis.

A complete line of ski accessories, including the new Thompson Safe Tow (all aluminum handle), as well as a lower price group of plywood skis, will complete the line.

For better visibility Thompson carries out a white and bright motif in their ski finishes. Skis are of white ash.

FLITE-SPEED KITBOATS BY CHRIS-CRAFT

One of the new Chris-Craft kitboats, the 14-foot Comet.

"Flite-speed" styled prototypes for 1958 Chris-Craft Kitboats demonstrate that budget-minded skippers can save up to one-half the cost of factory-completed craft and still achieve the individuality of costlier custom boats, with swept-back fins, wrap around windshields, new hull-side style patterns and mixed or matched color combinations. New models include fast performing outboard and inboard Sports Runabout and Utilities and low-cost family cruisers. Pre-machined and prefabricated wood-parts are easily assembled with non-ferrous fastenings following illustrated step-by-step instructions included in each kit.

The 8′ Pram, assembled in a weekend, becomes a light cartop boat for inland lakes. The 12′ Vagabond and 14′ Caribbean are open-cockpit utilities designed for fishing and fast outboarding, are easily trailered.

The new high-finned 12′ Meteor and 14′ Comet are in step with sports car styling. The Meteor is a single-cockpit speedster with room for another seat or abundant stowage space, aft. The Comet seats six and handles high-horsepower outboards for fast performance.

A sporty new 14′ Barracuda and beamy 16′ Custom Runabout both feature step-thru seat backs to permit easy entry into the forward cockpit, from aft. The Barracuda is one of Chris-Craft's all-time, most popular kitboats.

Sports Utilities include the 14′ Grayling and the raised-sheer 15′ Tarpon and 16′ Sports Utility. All combine the fast performance of outboard runabouts with the spaciousness of open utilities.

The 16′ Sports Cruiser features open styling that unites cockpit and cabin into a single spacious area. A one piece molded fiberglass cabin top and wrap-around windshield protect the two-berth cabin. A new 16′ Sports Express has a two-sleeper cabin under the raised forward deck.

Swankiest new kitboats are the 19′ Sports Runabout and Sports Convertible which can handle single or twin outboards or inboards up to 150 hp for speeds to 37 mph. The Convertible has a four-way folding top. Chris-Craft is also introducing a 19′ Sports Express cruiser with two-sleeper cabin.

Largest cruiser is the four sleeper 22′ Express, a full-fledged cruiser available in kit form.

WINCHESTER MODEL 55

TRADE-MARK

Here's a radical departure in 22 rifle design — the Winchester Model 55. ● When the cocking lever is pulled back and released the Model 55 is cocked. ● Then you put a 22 cartridge on the loading platform and push it into the chamber by depressing the platform, all in one short motion. ● This automatically puts the safety on. You must take safety off before the Model 55 can be discharged. ● When you pull the trigger, the all new Model 55 fires and automatically ejects the empty through a port just forward of the trigger guard and recocks itself. All you do is load and operate the safety, from then on you never cock again. For safety in handling, the Model 55 may be kept open by depressing the loading platform and pulling back the cocking handle. The simplest, safest and most unique 22 made, it's just the rifle to start a youngster off right. All 22's — Short, Long, Long Rifle. $23.95

CROPS and SOILS

Plastic Keeps Wet Bales from Spoiling

The idea of sealing stacks of high-moisture bales in plastic to save a hay crop when the weather turns bad is working out well for University of Minnesota scientists.

Last summer, they baled hay at 35% to 50% moisture, then stacked the wet bales and covered them with plastic so that air couldn't get in. This winter, those bales are making good feed.

"Sheep ate all of the sealed bales on one farm; none had to be thrown away because of spoilage," says scientist Rodney Briggs. "Dry matter losses run only about 5% after five months of storage—about what you'd get in a glass-lined upright silo."

But they lost the feed where the plastic got damaged and air leaked in.

Here are other things the scientists learned:

1. Wait until the temperature gets down to at least 40 degrees before you open and start feeding. You'll get some spoilage in warmer weather.

2. Small, twine-tied bales are easy to feed, won't break open during handling. Bales 22 to 24 inches long with 40% moisture weigh about the same as a full-sized bale of dry hay.

3. A little white mold develops inside the seal. But it's not harmful to cattle in such small amounts.

Briggs plans to try several ways to stop the mold next summer—create a vacuum to get rid of the trapped air, use chemicals that'll replace the air with another gas, and spray on antibiotics.

Cost for sealing bales under an 8-mil plastic cover runs less than $2 a ton for a bag big enough to cover 70 tons—the largest now on the market.

Aerial Photos Map Your Tile Lines

A camera and an airplane will make you a fast, accurate map of new tile lines, say Marion County, Ohio farmers who tried it.

They pooled their orders for maps and hired an aerial photographer to take pictures of several farms during a single flight. Cost: only $10 each.

"You get permanent records before crops smooth over the tile ditches," says W. L. Williams, Marion County SCS. "And it beats pacing off distances from a post or tree that you may pull up in a few years."

In Wood County, Ohio, Lewis Kramer got a pilot neighbor to fly over his tile system so he could take pictures with his own 35 mm. camera.

"BIGGER THAN EVER" WESTERN TOY SHOW FORESEEN BY MGR.

Reports from the west coast are that the 4th Annual Western Toy Show, scheduled for the Shrine Exposition Hall, Los Angeles, promises to be bigger and better-attended than any of those held in the three previous years

Fred J. Tabery, veteran showman, who manages a number of successful exhibits, has been engaged to direct this year's Western Toy Show

Mr. Tabery, with long experience in trade show management, says he believes that the toy industry, because of its nature, can derive particular benefit from a regional show. "Many small dealers," he notes, "with a trade show literally in their backyard, are able, where they wouldn't be ordinarily, to see the show and meet the manufacturers of the lines they handle or would like to handle."

SNIPE CLASS STILL GROWING

A pair of Snipes battle it out for some racing honor. Since the 15½' sloop was designed in 1932 by William F. Crosby the class has grown until there are now 11,000 registered in 437 fleets that are world-wide.

Twenty-five years old and growing!

That's the Snipe Class International Racing Association, the most truly numerous of all one-design yacht fellowships.

Tokyo to Turkey, behind the "Iron Curtain," and Mozambique to Oslofjord, Snipers hail newcomers by hundreds each year. Since the late William F. Crosby designed the 15½ foot sloop in 1932, more than 11,000 have been registered, in 437 fleets in 27 nations and territories. The United States of America counts Snipes in two dozen states and the District of Columbia.

Proud, and sure that theirs is a steed unique in some ways—a happy medium of speed, safety, size, cost, upkeep, trailability, and regulated equality—Snipe skippers and crews will continue to break precedent at the 1958 Boat Show, exhibiting a bright new Snipe complete with live sailors to answer questions and greet friends in the Snipe Class or any other persuasion. In their first amateur venture at the New York show, the sailors are chipping in—talents and money—to present the modest, fourth-floor Coliseum display where folksy words from the "men who own one" will replace big-time commercial pitch.

North Atlantic District Snipe sailors will stand "watches" over their "show boat," chatting and handing out thousands of copies of a special printed information brochure about the Snipe Class. Global maps and real flags of Snipe fleets and clubs, from near and distant oceans, seas, sounds, harbors, rivers, will provide a festive scene for the exhibit.

PLASTIC FABRICATIONS ADDS THE IROQUOIS

MANY CHAMPIONS USE HARD SAILS

The dacron sails made by Hard Sails, Inc., 203 Main St., Islip, L. I., New York, were used by many 1957 sailing champions.

Among them were the Lightning Class World championship won by Bill Cox; Raven Class National championship won by Jim Roosevelt; Atlantic Class championship won by Harry Platt; Finn Class North-American won by Glen Foster.

Herman F. Whiton, winner of the Seawanhaka Cup and Mel Gould who won the 5.5 Meter Canadian National championship also used Hard sails.

VOLKSWAGEN
AIR-COOLED ENGINE
NOW AVAILABLE IN THE SEA-BREEZE Marine

Whether you are re-powering your present boat or buying a new one be sure to learn the advantages of the Sea-Breeze air-cooled Marine

STANDARD INSTALLATION
Sea-Breeze Marine saves space

VOLKSWAGEN INSTALLATION

ON DISPLAY AT NATIONAL MOTORBOAT SHOW IN NEW YORK COLISEUM, JANUARY 17-26, BOOTH D-245 (4th FLOOR)

THE SEA-BREEZE MARINE IS BETTER BECAUSE:

You get more power per pound. No heavy water cooling system—no corrosion—light weight too because low weight crankcase holds only 2½ qts.

You get longer engine life. Low piston speed means less friction, less heat, less wear. Its built-in oil cooler keeps viscosity constant.

Cruising throttle is full throttle. Run this engine wide open all day long or throttle down to trolling speed. Needs no breaking-in.

For boats from 15' to 21'. Runabouts, sea skiffs or cruisers.

Service everywhere; though millions of Volkswagen engines in V.W. cars, trucks and busses bear eloquent testimony to the reliability and trouble free economy of the Sea-Breeze Marine, still, if parts are needed, any of the many V.W. dealers throughout the free world can supply you.

If your favorite boat yard or builder does not have full information, please write to:

ample room for these.

Not too generally known is the fact that Oklahoma is the only state that recognizes Santa Claus officially.

Out at the state capitol building in Oklahoma City Mrs. Warren Fountain, Secretary to Oklahoma Santa Claus Commission, spends all her time shopping for toys. She sees to it that every single child in an Oklahoma institution gets a Christmas gift.

Supported by legislative appropriation, the Oklahoma Santa Claus Commission is composed of the Governor, five other prominent officials, and Mrs. Fountain.

With some 3,000 Oklahoma children in institutions, Mrs. Fountain buys one to three toys for each of these youngsters. This probably makes her the largest individual toy buyer outside the industry.

"I enjoy Christmas the year around," says Mrs. Fountain, "for I'm always shopping for toys. And I have never yet had a toy dealer be unfair when I let it be known I was shopping for Oklahoma's orphans. In fact, they all turn over backward to help."

The Cat's Whiskers is a 40-foot catamaran houseboat built by the Navicat Corp.

NAVICAT CORP.

For those who seek a houseboat-type of craft which can be built either professionally or by the amateur, the Navicat Corp., a subsidiary of Cross, Austin & Ireland Lumber Co., Brooklyn, N. Y., now manufactures a line of pontoons to serve as the basic hull on which a superstructure may be erected. They are available in 18, 27 and 36' lengths. In addition to their use as basic hulls, they can be used as well for floats of various descriptions.

These pontoons are solid sandwich laminations of Styrofoam, a closed cell plastic developed by Dow Chemical Co., and marine plywood (U. S. Plywood Corp.) bonded together with a special resorcinal adhesive developed by the Borden Company's Chemical Division. They are sheathed with copper to prevent fouling and marine growth. Weight is approximately 8 pounds per cubic foot.

Completed boats are also available, based on these pontoons, used in pairs like a catamaran. There is a 40' Cat's Whiskers houseboat with complete accommodations for comfortable living afloat, powered with two 125 hp Palmers; and a 20' outboard cruiser, the Cat's Meow, well adapted to construction by the amateur boatbuilder.

TERRA-MARINA

Just announced by the Terra-Marina Manufacturing Company, Inc., Houston, Texas is a new amphibious Sportscraft. Designed and engineered as a year-round craft, this amphibious houseboat has such features as 145 square feet of outside deck space, including a forward, aft, and sun deck. It has a 21' amphibious hull with built-in trailer, and detachable trailer hitch, to adapt it to land as well as water travel. The craft has a fiberglass insulated aluminum cabin, storage space in the hull, tile floor, ship's wheel, ship's ladder, and complete land and marine running lights. There is an aft deck compartment for fresh water tank, batteries, and gas tank.

The Sportscraft has complete facilities including dinette, galley with combination stove and ice box, sink, fresh water galley pump, toilet, and sleeping accommodations for four or more.

BOAT DISTRIBUTION

Adding four new models for 1958 to their line of outboard boats, Boat Distribution, Inc., of Clinton, North Carolina, now has a total of 35 different type boats from an 8' junior skipper's sport runabout to a houseboat.

Grandma III, an amphibious houseboat, is the 1958 version of Grandma II, remembered as the Mexico-to-New York cruising houseboat of 1953. Grandma III, produced for Boat Distribution, Inc., is primarily a watercraft. It has complete accommodations for comfortable living aboard for four. Its many features include topside sun deck, fore and aft decks for fishing and ease in handling; dual wiring for dockside or cruising; dual water system for hook-up to dockside line or on board tank supply. Ample closet and cupboard space; inner spring mattresses; picture window; built-in dinette; drapes; forward mechanical steering; and approved running lights.

New boats announced include a 12' cartop skiff of plywood construction, weighing 90 pounds and capable of high speeds with up to 10 hp motor: a beamy 16' sport runabout of 5-ply mahogany plywood, mahogany and oak frame.

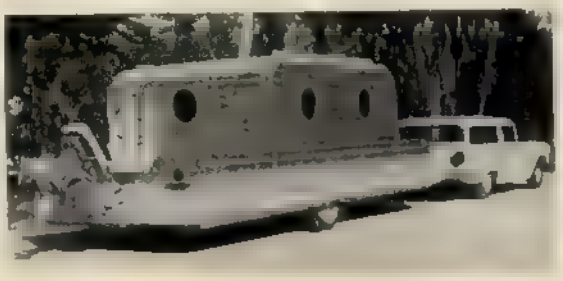
Blue Fin Sport Fisherman is a new 16' all-fiberglass deluxe sport fisherman, equipped with all accessories including full swivel fishing chairs and rod-holders.

Plywood hulls, in 16 and 18' lengths, are now available as completely equipped sport fishermen at relatively low cost.

Boat Distribution's Econo Line, new for 1958, includes three plywood 14' runabouts for use with up to 22 hp motors.

RED WING CASA CRUISER

Red Wing Marine Corporation, Red Wing, Minnesota, enters the boatbuilding field with a new 40' houseboat called the Casa Cruiser. She is powered with twin Red Wing Meteor 100 hp engines.



This Terra-Marina 21-foot houseboat is designed for land or water travel. She offers 145 square feet of outside deck space.

Red Wing's 40' houseboat is powered by two Red Wing Meteor 100-hp engines. Called Casa Cruiser, she provides ample facilities to accommodate 7 persons.

The Casa Cruiser provides ample facilities to accommodate seven overnight guests in comfort. Refinements include decorator fabric draperies, soft gold-tone carpeting, picture-view windows, fabric-covered walls, indirect lighting, full-sized inlaid tile shower, lavatory and toilet, a galley as convenient as a kitchen ashore, spacious dining room facilities, ample stowage space, and a big sun deck.

Typical of the spaciousness of this home afloat is the living area, designed for gracious entertaining. There are electric outlets everywhere for such added conveniences as electric razor, radios, TV, kitchen mixers, etc. The stateroom has a permanent full-size double-berth with foam rubber mattress and a swing-down bunk folds away in seconds. The dining area offers plenty of room to seat six comfortably, and the galley is designed for modern streamlined efficiency.

Hull of the Casa Cruiser, designed by A. M. Deering, is welded 10-gauge steel. Gasoline capacity of 208 gallons provides a wide cruising radius.

Grandma III, handled by Boat Distribution, is a 25' x 8' steel-hulled houseboat with an aluminum and mahogany cabin. She has comfortable living accommodations for 4.

►There's a plan to build a marine railway to cover approximately 1,000 feet to lift boats from Grand Traverse Bay into Elk Lake on the Western side of the State. This will give cruising craft access to Round and Torch Lakes, two of the largest bodies of inland waters in the northern parts of Michigan's lower peninsula.

ON THE NIAGARA FRONTIER

By Reginald H. Pegrum

► The Buffalo Canoe Club in early November elected new directors and flag officers for the coming year. The new commodore is Lawrence V. Whistler Jr.; vice comm., Curtis H. Deming; rear comm., Edward J. Wegman, fleet capt., Robert G. Maccubin; sec., John L. Battel, treas., Robert C. Coleman. Directors elected for three-year terms are Thomas G. Allen III, Bruce E. Care, Edward P. Curley and William W. Hughes

An apparent attempt to set fire to the BCC clubhouse occurred in late October. A pile of folded newspapers in a second floor hall was found partially burned with only minor scorching of the walls. The fire was out when discovered, and only the folding of the papers prevented further damage. Youthful mischief makers are suspected.

► The Lake YRA held its annual meeting in Buffalo in early November. New officers for the coming year were selected. The new president is John R. Mason of Royal Canadian YC, Toronto; 1st v.p. Karl Smither, Buffalo CC; 2nd v.p. Arnold A. Gorman, National YC, Toronto, sec.-treas. Newton B Castle, Rochester YC. The 1957 president, A. H. (Bud) Gorsline, was elected honorary president. The 1958 LYRA regatta is scheduled to be held at Port Dalhousie, Ont. sponsored by the Port Dalhousie YC, Aug. 2-4 The Freeman Race begins at Presqu'Ile, Ont. July 30 to Oakville, Ont., to the finish at Port Dalhousie.

► Boat registration and boating interest continue to rise rapidly in this area. One indication is the continued growth of the Buffalo Power Squadron activities This fall, under the direction of John Gelman, some 550 students attended elementary piloting classes in Buffalo, Tonawanda, Hamburg, Jamestown, and Wellsville. James D Kline, in charge of advanced courses, reports 65 students in Advanced Piloting, 20 in Junior Navigation, and 20 in Celestial Navigation Frank Ernst reports 35 in Weather, and Paul Emmons 25 in Engine Maintenance. Seamanship under Clayton Learman will begin in early January.

► As this is being written, the crew of the Seattle hydro Hawaii Kai III are readying the Kai for a Nov. 29 assault on the one-mile and kilometer records on Lake Washington. The course is new, between Juanita Beach and Kirkland. Slo-Mo-Shun IV's records of 160.3235 and 178.497 m.p.h. were set on the Sand Point and East Channel courses, in 1950 and 1952 Supertest's new kilometer record, recently established, provided the necessary impetus for a new Seattle one-mile trial. All things being equal, Kai should break the one-mile record sooner or later, for she has unofficially been credited with 195 m.p.h. in Lake Washington trials. She did it. See p. 374.

► Speaking of hydros: The Seattle YC held a gala "hydro luncheon" early in November, to point up the rather astonishing fact that Seattle's unlimited hydroplanes during the PASSENGER SPEED-UP: With passenger business increasing all over Japan there is real need to move people faster in order to accommodate more of them. As one measure, the JNR plans to inaugurate a through Tokyo-Kagoshima (Southern Kyushu) special express this coming fall. The 970 miles will be covered in 22 hours, as against the present 28. Tentative plans call for a 4 p.m. Tokyo departure and arrival at Kagoshima the following 2 p.m. The train will carry 11 cars, most of which will be sleepers. On the same new timetable will appear a 6½-hour (now 7½-hour) Tokyo-Osaka Business Special Express, and an 11½-hour (now 13½-hour) Tokyo-Aomori (northern end of Honshu) Tohoku Express. Result: The number of special express trains leaving Tokyo daily will be doubled from the present four to eight.

ELSEWHERE: India claims to have the lowest railway fare in the world: 5 pie (three-fifths of an American penny) per mile. . . . The Manila Railroad has on order 250 flat cars from Japanese builders.

SHORT LINES

BY WILLIAM S. YOUNG

POSITIVE. Praiseworthily bucking economic trends of the moment, U. S. Steel is moving ahead with plans for a 265-mile ore road in northern Quebec, adjacent to Quebec North Shore & Labrador Railway. The new Cartier Railway, a subsidiary of U. S. Steel's Quebec Cartier Mining Company, initially would build a 190-mile line, is intended to connect the Mt. Wright and Mt. Reed ore fields with Shelter Bay on the St. Lawrence River. Canada has approved its construction as a private line, but neighboring mining interests may later force incorporation as a common carrier. . . . St. Marys Railroad, up-to-date Georgia pulpwood-and-paper carrier owned by St. Marys Kraft Corporation, has finally received I.C.C. consent to its plan for a 21-mile extension from Kingsland to Folkston. The 11-mile road now connects with the Seaboard at Kingsland, will gain new connections with Atlantic Coast Line and the Southern at Folkston. Its new extension will be a measure shorter than one proposed back in 1915 by Atlantic, Waycross & Northern, a predecessor, which sought to build a 222-mile line into central Georgia. . . . Samuel M. Pinsly has I.C.C. permission to add Central Vermont Railway's 8-mile Barre Branch to his Montpelier & Barre Railroad, Vermont granite carrier. Reported purchase price, $350,000. Since beginning operations in January 1957 M&B has increased its roster from two to four 70-ton diesels to take over private quarry switching and the CV line.

NEGATIVE: The effects of recession and lowered carloadings seem to be visible in a new outbreak of abandonment cases. Augusta Railroad, a 2-mile Arkansas midget that of late has operated as infrequently as once in two weeks because of a slump in its cotton traffic, is the newest applicant. Chicago Aurora & Elgin Railway, which dropped passenger service last year pending completion of a subway link, now wants to make the cessation permanent and either abandon freight operations or sell out to a connecting line. The Illinois electric has been unable to reach agreement with Chicago Transit Authority on restoring passenger service to downtown Chicago via the new subway. . . . Several pending cases have recently won I.C.C. approval. Two Southern lumber roads, Hampton & Branchville Railroad of South Carolina and Sumter & Choctaw Railway of Alabama, are tearing up the greater portion of their lines. Ohio's 11-mile Toledo & Eastern Railroad will give up its entire route, and Maryland's 19-mile Hagerstown & Frederick Railway (Potomac Edison Company) is cutting back to 4 miles of terminal tracks. . . . Abandonment may be in the offing for other short lines. The future is cloudy for Prattsburgh Railway, 11-mile farmers' road in western New York. In Utah, the 28-mile Bamberger Railroad (once the proudest of Utah interurbans, and dieselized since 1952) is talking about abandoning most of its line and selling tracks around Salt Lake City and Ogden to Rio Grande and Union Pacific. Hudson & Manhattan Railroad, bankrupt New York-New Jersey commuter electric, envisions a reorganization that would put its profitable real estate holdings into one corporation, rail facilities into a separate subsidiary. But a short life is predicted for the junior member of the proposed split, and abandonment is now being talked up even though the passenger-only H&M is awaiting delivery of new cars.

TOOLS OF A MODERN PIONEER: STANDARDIZED ROLLING STOCK

Pioneering is a North Western habit. 110 years ago it was our nation's frontiers—today it is the challenge of serving a dynamic American economy. The North Western aim: to make competition, not just meet it.

Reaching this goal calls for the finest management and operating skills. From billing procedures to rolling stock it demands the utmost in efficiency, dependability, speed and economy.

To meet these high-level performance requirements, the North Western relies heavily on Pullman-Standard Standardized Rolling Stock. They have found that the advanced methods of mass carbuilding used by Pullman-Standard provide the product benefits they must have: impressive first cost savings, workhorse dependability, shipper confidence, reduced maintenance and longer car life.

Write for brochures on all the P-S Standardized line: the PS-1 Box Car, PS-2 Covered Hopper, PS-3 Open Hopper, PS-4 Flat Car and PS-5 Gondola. Discover how the built-in benefits of standardization can be put to work on your railroad.

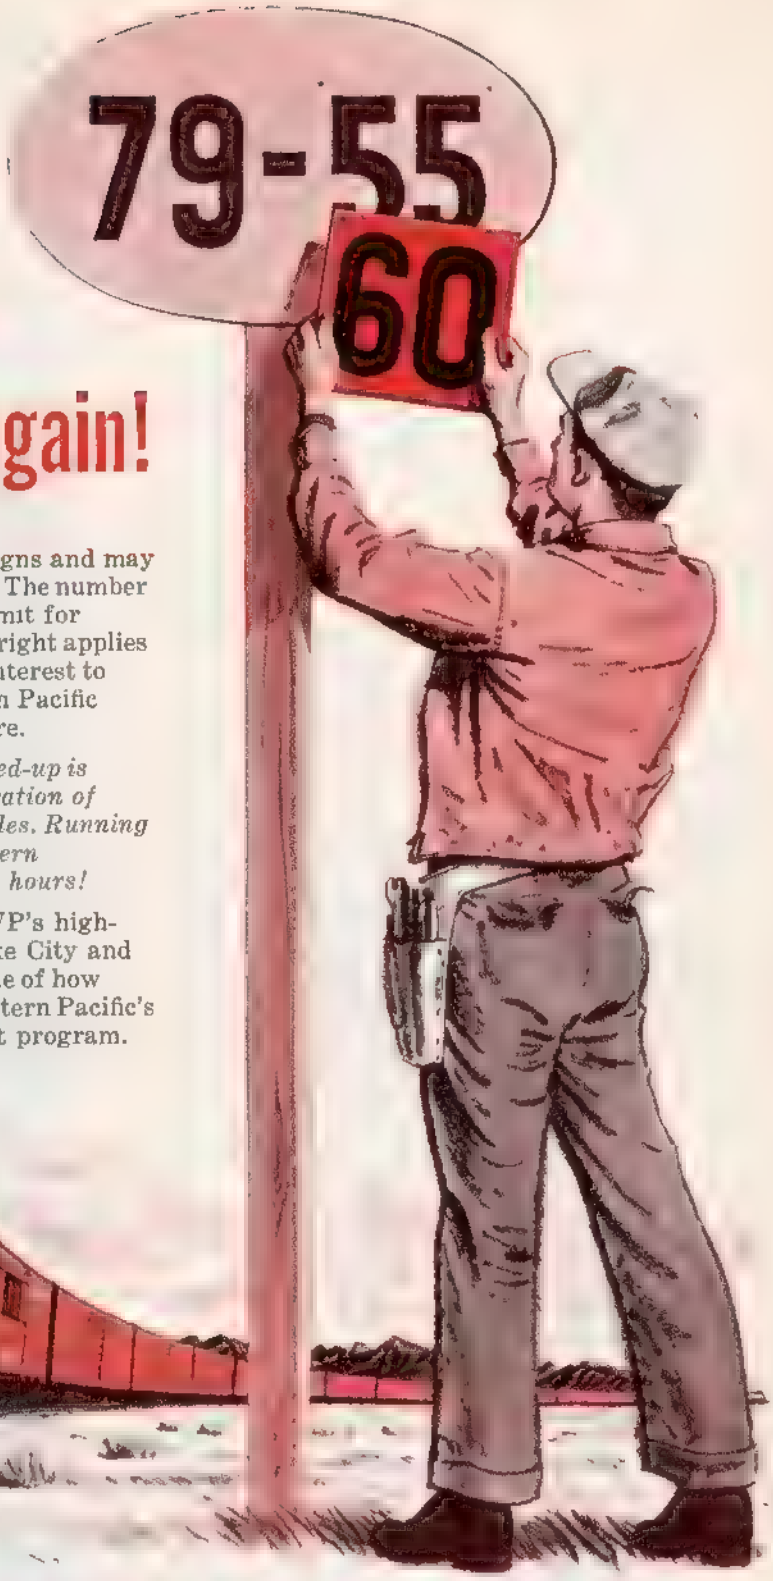
Up goes the speed limit again!



Chances are you've seen these signs and may have wondered what they meant. The number on the left refers to the speed limit for passenger trains; the one on the right applies to freight trains. Of particular interest to shippers are the changes Western Pacific is making in the right-hand figure.

A very tangible result of this speed-up is Western Pacific's recent inauguration of faster westbound freight schedules. Running time between Chicago and Northern California has been cut a full 24 hours!

Faster freight schedules over WP's high-speed roadbed between Salt Lake City and the West Coast are a good example of how shippers are benefiting from Western Pacific's multimillion dollar improvement program.
